

Houston Self-Restoration Center

September, 2011 Newsletter

Houston Self-Restoration Center employs a method which was created by Russian professor-researcher Anatoliy Lutsevich. I have learned about this center and this method from my former classmate Vladimir. Here is his story. One night I was awakened by a ringing phone. Vladimir was calling me. He lives in the Caucasus region near the city of Pytigorsk. I had not heard from him for over a year. He explained to me that he had been having large health problems. In the last year his body developed diabetes and his feet became gangrenous. As a result of his condition, his doctors made a decision to amputate his feet. It was difficult to accept such a decision, so he and his family started to search for alternative treatments. Someone referred him to the Self-Restoration Center which is conducted by Lutsevich in Stavropol.

Vladimir could not walk when he came to this center. He was transported by his son and son-in-law. After half a year of treatment, he started walking on his own, his feet were no longer gangrenous, and it was not necessary to amputate them. When he called me he was back to a normal high-grade life. My reaction was joyful, I was happy for his miracle recovery. He tried to tell me something more about this restoration method, but it was a deep night and I wanted to go back to sleep so I did not get the information about this method of recovery.

Some time passed by and Vladimir called me again. We were talking about his health and he told me he continues to take the treatments at this center. His legs were a good shape and the level of sugar in his blood had gradually decreased. He told me that he carries the special small plate on his body and uses the harmonizer devices developed by Lutsevich at home. At this time I discovered something interesting in this story and I asked him to send me some materials about this technique. I made a call to Stavropol and thus have in absentia gotten acquainted with professor Lutsevich and his unique technique of self-restoration.

The center in Stavropol, Russia was organized more than ten years ago. During this time, over a thousand people have been restored to their health. Some people were able to avoid very serious heart surgery and other diseases such as hepatitis, various pulmonary system infections, diabetes, various allergies, and have also experienced regeneration of kidneys and other internal organs.

These results give rise to the question of what this remarkable technique represents!

Let's begin with that - the most perfectly balanced system itself adjusts a human body, using information programs. Information programs will coordinate work of cells, tissue, bodies, systems and all organisms; this system will also supervise the biochemical processes which are taking place in cells, tissue and bodies.

"Illnesses are not present, - considers Lutsevich, - there are infringements in the work of information programs."

And there are such infringements for many different reasons: there could be viral infections, food poisoning, industrial and medicinal intoxications or the influences of the program of the emotional consciousness of an individual. What does modern medicine advise in all these cases? It starts to treat the symptoms, not understanding that disease of the body is a consequence of the infringement of the integrity of the operating program of the ability to live. Therefore, healing a physical body requires normalization of this information program.

Anatoliy Lutsevich has come to the conclusion that any negative information causing infringement is unstable and can be cleansed from an organism.

He has developed the special technology and the equipment (harmonizer). A main part of all these devices is an Information module consisting of a set of crystals. The correcting information is written down in electronic, inter-nuclear lattice of crystals. The information devices developed in the Center, have a long useful life and do not have analogues at this time.

Recently Tatyana Martin, a follower of Anatoly Lutsevich, has opened a similar center in Houston.

I had come to Tatyana's office before the appointed time. She had a client. It was a young woman by the name of Valery. Valery has admitted that she adjusted rather skeptically when her problem was addressed in this center three months ago. But she has decided to give it a try because she suffered from a terrible aciform rash on her face. She went to doctors, but they suggested only awful pills and they were not helpful. After treatment in this center, the skin on her face acquired a healthier look. She still has a small cicatrix, but is confident that, in due course, it will pass.

What occurs, when you come to the Center for the first time?

It is begin with diagnostics. For these purposes, it is use a computer meridian stress scan of systems and bodies of the client, which quickly gives out information on which systems are weakened, which are under stress, and which work normally. On the first Valery's visit, it was found that her liver was weak, causing the aciform rash on her face.

In the center facility, there is a treated pyramid made from copper pipe. It is connected to the information harmonizer with twenty-six information blocks of memory. Usually, clients spend an hour inside pyramid. As a result of this process, an organism chooses only that unique information that is necessary for its self-restoration at the present time. This information is then recorded on the rigid carrier. The correcting program (INFORMATION) from this carrier is read out and is carried in an organism by blood and lymph systems. We recommend acquiring Harmonizers to obtain the strengthening effect of self-restoration.

Tatyana has shared with me the experience of the use one of these devices. She said: "from personal experience I wish to add, that since I have gotten these devices, I have absolutely ceased to require medicines. I do not remember the last time was at the doctor's office. I drink good, healthy water, and I take showers and baths with these devices; I also use them to calm my tired eyes after a long day of work at the computer."

As a result of her work in the center, Tatyana was convinced that Lutsevich's method yields especially good results for allergies, a weak energy level, asthmas, obesity and other diseases. "No, it cannot cure a cancer in the last stage, she adds, but the harmonizer will help to strengthen the immune system after chemical and radio therapy treatment". Those who wish to become familiar with Anatoly Lutsevich's theory in all details, can read his article "Non-material information in the Universe", which is found on webpage of this center.
